La Marque Postale has been known for its quality publications for several years. In the series “Etudes Speciales” LMP presents its third publication entitled “Disinfection of mail in the Mediterranean with the focus on Malta”. This study deals with the disinfected mail in the Mediterranean area. The different disinfection sites or “lazarets” are discussed including the stamps and letters used to illustrate them. This work highlights an unusual part of the postal treatment of letters and the cancels illustrated make this study a fascinating and interesting whole. Very worthwhile and useful for postal historians concerned with international mail sent via the Mediterranean. The print run is, as usual with LMP publications, very limited. (40ex.).
